Featured Special Education Resource Links

This free resource has been developed to help both educators and parents. I regularly have parents and teachers contact my website to request information and suitable resources for their child or student who has a particular special need. Over the years I have taken my time to research appropriate resources, links and documents to help. I decided to pose the idea of providing useful weekly links based on one particular syndrome, condition, disease, illness or disability via my Facebook page (Clever Classroom). The response was strong and it seems quite obvious that other educators needed some help with ideas, as well as a place to share their knowledge and help others, which I love. I will be featuring a different condition, syndrome, disability, illness or delay each week on my Facebook page.

I do not have special education training, but have worked with many different children who have presented with their own unique challenges. I want to help others and I know that providing a series of free resources to download via my Teachers Pay Teachers (TpT) store and weekly information posts will go a long way to saving you some time. This is the first download in a series. I hope you will drop by our Facebook page or our TpT store to collect all of the downloads. Please feel free to contact me via TpT or Facebook should you have any questions, or would like to contribute to a document or a Facebook post.

Regards,

Emma Farrell
